A MONTANA STAGE ROBBERY.

Standing Up a Load of Passengers.

Charles Cooper, one of the victims, gives the following details of the stage robbery near Helena: "We had just had dinner, and it seemed as though we were scarcely out of sight of the station when the coach suddenly stopped. Myself and Charles E. Dudley were on the inside. The right side curtain was down, and a moment after the stoppage of the coach it was pulled aside and a man shoved a six shooter inside and said: 'Now then, you fellows get out here, lively.' We did not appreciate the situation at once, and the order was repeated in a tone that caused us to realize that it was no joke, and we got out. We were then ordered to throw up our hands and march up in front of the horses, and told to look down the road and not to move. One of the robbers held a six-shooter in each hand, one on us three passengers standing in front of the horses and the other on the driver. The other then went through us, from the ground up, taking everything that he found—pocket-books, knives, pipes, tobacco, jewelry, watches and about $350. After they had got all that we had, they pulled out the mail sacks and cut them open and took all the valuables they contained. They then ordered us to gather up the scattered mail and throw it into the coach loose, after which we were told to get in ourselves, and the driver was ordered to drive on and not look back." Wird was sent back by a Mr. Nickelson, whom they met, to Mitchell to have the sock-tender go to Silver City and telephone to Helena. The robbers were small-sized men, one apparently twenty-two years old and the other about thirty. The wore black cloth over the upper part of their faces. They appeared to understad their business thoroughly, and were pefectly cool. On Mr. Cooper's watch chain he wore a small locket, containing his wife's picture, which he asked the road agents to allow him to keep. "Can't do it young man; we're too hard up," was the reply. F. T. Bradley, a young man from the state of Connecticut, was the passenger who occupied the seat alongside the driver. From him the robbers only got $7 and his jewelry, watch, etc., their first search, but after they were though one said: "I believe that fellow has some more money," so they went though him again, and found the remainder of his cash in an inside vest pocket. They did not rob the driver, naturally supping he was broke, which was fortunate for him, as he had about $100 in his pocket.

GUELPH, May 31.—Considerable excitement was created in the city to-night by the arresting of Mr. C. Kirk, boot and shoe merchant, on a charge of incendiarism. The facts of the case are as follows:—On Friday evening, after Guy & Husband's dry-goods store was closed and all the clerks left, one of the partners had occasion to go upstairs, and detecting an odour as if arising from burning coal oil he went to the third flat, where smoke was seen coming through the floor. He at once got assistance and the floor was torn up, when it was discovered that the fire had smothered itself for want of air. A quantity of rags saturated with coal oil were found close to the brick wall which separates Mr. Kirk's shoe store from the one in which the fire was discovered. This morning a fuller investigation was made, and on taking up the floor on Mr. Kirk's side of the wall it was seen that a small hole had been bored through the wall and only recently filled up as the mortar was quite fresh. The chief of police was consulted, and to-night Mr. Kirk was placed under arrest on suspicion.

GALT, June 1.—The body of Miss Minnie Partridge, who was drowned in the Grand River here on the 26th ult., was found this morning by a farmer four miles down the river.

KINGSTON, June 2.—One hundred children, sent out by the Catholic Protectory of Liverpool, will arrive here for placement by the sisters of Hotel Dieu.

GUELPH, June 2.—An old man named Kerr, from Stratford, was found dead in his room at the Royal Hotel this morning. The gas was found turned on, and the room filled with it. He had been dead for some hours when discovered. The deceased was about 80 years of age, and is said to have owned a large farm near Stratford. $200 in cash was found in his pockets.

ADULTERATION OF FOOD.

The question of the adulteration of food is always an interesting one, inasmuch as it is to a certain extent a test of the progress of the industrial arts and the advance of our common civilization. Were the science f adulteration only given free rein, there is little doubt that it would develop the highest phase of human ingenuity, and the stories of manufactured artificial eggs and beefsteaks which now astonish us would sink into utter insignificance before the still more wonderful reality. Between bad preparation and adulteration our food has a hard time of it, and our stomachs a still harder one, though in this Dominion it is somewhat disappointing to find that the adulteration of food does not seem to have advanced as a science with the alacrity which might have been anticipated. The report on the adulteration of food, supplement No. 3, to the department of inland revenue for 1883, gives some very interesting information on this subject in the different provinces, with exhaustive tabular statements. Of these do however, a very summary abstract (ly be given. In the first place for the whole Dominion there were 1,243 samples of various kinds of food analyzed. Out of these 911 were genuine, 302 adulterated and 30 doubtful. About twenty-four per cent. therefore were adulterated.

Seventy-nine samples of breadstuffs, breadbiscuit flour, baking powder, etc., were analyzed. Two samples of baking powder were found adulterated with flour; in the other articles there was no adulteration.

Of butter 163 samples were analyzed and 49 reported adulterated, the largest percentage being reported from Montreal.

Of 89 samples of canned fruit and vegetables, only 7 had traces of tin and iron. Of 32 samples of cocoa and chocolate only two were adulterated.

Coffee—95 analyzed, 42 adulterated, 3 doubtful.

Condiments—134 analyzed, 86 adulterated; 900 tons of spice and condiments are imported annually into Canada, two-thirds of which are ground in the Canada spice mills. A considerable portion of pepper, ginger, mustard, etc., after going through the mill comes out peas or flour. As we are likely to deal considerably with Canada in these articles, it would be well to bear this fact in mind.

Drugs—98 analyzed, 12 adulterated and 3 doubtful. This is pretty fair.

Milk—157 analyzed, 29 adulterated, 14 doubtful. Water the chief defect.

Potted meats and fish—54 analyzed, 8 adulterated. Creditable.

Pork and sausages—10 samples microscopically examined and found free from trichina.

Sugar pure.

Tea—74 samples analyzed, 26 adulterated, 3 doubtful. Percentage of adulteration on the increase.

Vinegar—37 analyzed, 6 adulterated and 1 doubtful.

Whiskey—26 analyzed, 8 diluted with water.

Port wine—Two samples of port wine and one of sherry were analyzed. The sherry alone had been trifled with.

In regard to Montreal butter the analysis shows that the mixture of other fats does not often occur, water in excess, adulterations with boiler scrapings, excess of caseine and bad butter, seem to be common complaints.

Coffee seems to be most adulterated with chicory, peameal and roasted corn, also starch, and bread.

Ginger is adulterated with wheat flour, tumeric, and pepper fibre and mineral dust.

Mustard is mostly adulterated with wheat flour, other cereals and tumeric.

Tea is considerably adulterated with foreign leaves and faced with gypsum and Prussian blue, gum resin is also occasionally added.

Vinegar seems to be very little adulterated. Whiskeys are both considerably diluted and adulterated, Canadian rye being comparatively untampered with.

The conclusion arrived at by the department is that there is a large amount of adulteration in low priced articles, but there is not so much injurious adulteration as might be supposed. The most unsafe adulterations are those of drugs, milk and liquors.

THE ARTICLE SIGNED "G."

The article by Mr. Gladstone in the current number of the Fortnightly Review is simply signed "G." The Times published a leading article attributing it to Mr. Gladstone. The Pall Mall Gazette declared that the Times has committed an astonishing and deplorable blunder. The Sun's special says Mr. Gladstone in the Fortnightly Review, under the thin disguise of the signature "G.," denounces Bismarck as devoid of all moral principle and calls on Englishmen to stand by the alliance with France. The Tribune's letter says: A remarkable article in the Fortnightly Review confidently and publicly attributed to Mr. Gladstone, once more indicates his belief in the necessity of making every sacrifice to obtain the good will of France, ominously coupling Russia with France as the only other European power whose friendship is really important to England. This is supposed to mean that concession to Russia in Central Asia and Constantinople are to keep pace with ressions to France on the Nile. The sh correspondent of the Toronto says that this policy is doomed to for the simple reason that the englis people will not stand it. Mr. Gladstone's admission that the practical control of European policies is vested in Germany contrasts singularly with the argument that England does not consider Germany in the conduct of foreign policy, nor will his description of Germany as the arbiter of Europe atone for his offensive description of Prince Bismarck as playing on English honesty in order to make England a catspaw.

THE DYNAMITE EXCITEMENT IN ENGLAND.

The latest dynamite outrage has excited rage in England. The first few explosions caused alarm. This last affair has caused a feeling of hot indignation to take the place of alarm. A correspondent says that the public are becoming hourly more restless and agitated over the apparent incompetency of the police, and the wildest schemes of reprisals against Irish agitators are mooted. The appointment of local vigilance committees on the American western plan is seriously discussed in some hitherto very conservative quarters. Extra guards have been placed around the residence of Mr. Gladstone. Sir William Vernon Harcourt, home secretary, has been made particularly anxious by the events. He openly avows his belief that the authors of the outrages calculated upon killing certain members of the government. The London journals speaks generally with moderation, but one or two make ominous threats of reprisal, and the persons most alarmed in London and the most relieved at the comparative failure of the outrages are the Irish inhabitants, whose lives and property are made insecure by these attempts. The political effect of these events is intensified by the fact that the general election is apparently very near, and an election taking place soon after one of these outrages would be fought by the conservatives on the anti-Irish cry, and would bring probably an anti-Irish party of such immense proportions into the house of commons as to make even the Parnellite party of seventy-five men as powerless as Mr. Parnell's followers were made for a period after the Phœnix Park murders.

A PROPER APPRECIATION.

The Pall Mall Gazette has a proper appreciation of Mr. Blaine and his policy. It believes that in the event of his election Great Britain will have trouble with the United States. Blaine is an ardent believer in the Munroe Doctrine, which does not tolerate the presence of a foreign power on American soil. He may tone down somewhat after election; but that is extremely doubtful.

Nanaimo Nuisances.

NANAIMO, June 9th, 1884.

TO THE EDITOR. — Sometime since a paragraph appeared in your paper in which it was stated that the publication of a communication from a citizen of Nanaimo concerning the nuisances tolerated at that place was declined on account of its length adding that the mere mention of such an "intolerable nuisance" as the keeping of pigs beneath one of the principal hotels ought to be sufficient to cause its abatement. The sanitary and municipal environments which afflict this place cannot be diag (nosed) nor fully comprehended at the distance Victoria is from us. The pig pen and slaughter pen odors which permeate the atmosphere of this place owing to the principle of diffusion applicable to all gases, probably, do not remain sufficiently concentrated to sensibly affect the olfactory nerves at a greater distance than Chemainus, even when driven in that direction by a strong north wind, and to understand the municipal relation to the sanitary condition of the town it should be known that a man who was last year a member of the city council maintained at that time, and still maintains, a very filthy pigsty in a portion of the townsite which is designated by the high sounding title of Victoria Crescent. Furthermore, a man who is at present one of the city fathers recently had several wheelbarrow loads of refuse from his place of business dumped directly on one of the most frequented thoroughfares of the town. The pigsty nuisance and others of a similar character in their relation to the body politic here has become like unto a cancerous ulcer on the physical body, too deeply seated to yield to lotions and poultices, and lying too near vital parts to admit of the use of the scalpel. Therefore the only initial treatment available which may induce a healing condition is a liberal use of caustic applications.

In conclusion I would direct your attention to the presentment of the grand jury for the court of assize now in session here. As your paper is the one of most considerable general circulation published in the province I would suggest the propriety of publishing in it some of the most pertinent extracts from the presentment so that immigrants and others who may contemplate coming here to reside may not come in ignorance of what they will have to encounter, and so that those whose business may require them to visit this place may provide themselves with a good supply of disinfectants and such other health precautions as the extraordinary nature of the situation demands during the time they may be compelled to remain here. FAMILY MAN.

Correction.

TO THE EDITOR:—In regard to a paragraph in your paper of yesterday headed a "Little Unpleasantness" allows me to say that you have gone astray in your statement, as I did not bring any liquor into camp; it was brought there and while there was given to me.

AN OLD SOLDIER.

SANKEY.

His Grand Voice Stilled.

LONDON, June 2.—Mr. Dwight L. Moody, the evangelist, announced this evening at his revival service on the Thames embankment that the health of his colleague, Ira D. Sankey, had again collapsed. He added that Mr. Sankey's complete restoration to health was deemed absolutely improbable, and that his voice, which had so often led thousands of assembled worshippers in the songs of Zion, would probably never be heard again their services. The preacher said that the great singer's present prostration was so complete that he had been compelled to retire from the work of evangelization, and would sail for his home in the United States on next Saturday. Mr. Moody pronounced a touching eulogium on the services and devotion of Mr. Sankey, and concluded by asking the prayers of the congregation for the preservation of his useful and honored life. The response was very earnest and affecting. Several fervent prayers were offered for Mr. Sankey's recovery, and many people in the congregation, including strong men as well as women, were moved to tears.

Payn's New Novel.

LONDON,, June 2.—Mr. James Payn, the novelist, and editor of the Cornhill Magazine, has arranged with a combination of American newspaper publishers for the simultaneous publication of his forthcoming novel, which is to be entitled, "The Talk of the Town." The story is founded upon the events attending the production and ultimate detection and exposure of Ireland's Shaksperian forgeries. It introduces among its characters many of the famous actors and actresses of the time of Richard Brinsley Sheridan, and the scene of the action is laid mostly at Stratford-on-Avon and London.

TESTIMONIALS

FROM THE DISTINGUISHED

ARTISTS AND MUSICIANS

IN THE UNITED STATES TO

STEINWAY & SONS'

PIANOS.

A SHIPMENT NOW EN ROUTE

NEW YORK, February, 1885.

THE PIANOFORTES—GRAND, SQUARE AND Upright—manufactured by Messrs. STEINWAY & SONS have established for themselves so world-wide a reputation that it is hardly possible for us to add anything to their just fame.

Having thoroughly tested and tried these instruments personally for years, both in public and private, it becomes our pleasant duty to express our candid opinion regarding their unquestioned superiority over any other piano known to us.

Among the chief points of their uniform excellence are:—Greatest possible depth, richness and volume of tone, combined with a rare brilliancy, clearness, and perfect evenness throughout the scale, and, above all, a surprising duration of sound, the pure and sympathetic quality of which never changes under the most delicate or powerful touch.

This peculiarity is found exclusively in the "Steinway" Piano, and, together with the matchless precision, elasticity and promptness of action always characterizing these instruments, as well as their unequaled durability under the severest trials, is truly surprising, and claims at once the admiration of every artist. We therefore consider the "Steinway" Pianos in all respects the best instruments made in this country or in Europe, use them solely and exclusively ourselves in public or private, and recommend them invariably to our friends and the public.

We have at different times expressed our opinions regarding the pianos of various makers, but freely and unhesitatingly pronounce Messrs. STEINWAY & SONS' Pianos superior to all.

The ship Duke of Connaught has been discharging powder and will probably not enter the harbor till to-morrow.

The Dry Dock.

Still no news of drydock commencement or the throwing open of the railway belt. The silence is as oppressive as it is inexplicable and disastrous. Srely there should be some information oon. It cannot be the intention of the Macdonald government, after securing the construction of the island railway—hich had already been productive of good results—to ignore the remainder o the contract.

Settling the Island.

The party of settlers who were taken to Englishman river by Mr. Halpenny remained on the land and are hunting for good land. All the men who went up two weeks ago to Beaver Creek are laying in suplies have staked off the claims and will uild cabins. They are well satisfied wit the outlook. Mr. Halpenny returned to town yesterday.

The Salmon Pack.

The run on the Sacramento rier is over and the total pack is 32,000 ases. On Columbia river to the 7th ins the spring pack was 30 per cent. short of that at a corresponding date in 1883. If the runs in June and July should b light there will be a heavy shortage. At Alaska the canneries have not made preparations for a heavy run and the indications are that they will not be disappointed.

Demand for Farming Land.

There is a brisk inquiry for [illegible]rming land on the island. Improved fans are in request and good prices are paid in every instance where a sale is effected. This is a very encouraging sign.

THE STEAMER RUBY.—The steamer Ruby, Capt. Moore, running between this port and New Westminster, h been ordered by Inspector Vigor not to leave port on account of defect in her oiler.

[Before Sir Mathew B. Begbie, C. J.]

TUESDAY, June 9.

Johnston vs. Clarke, Ross vs. Clarke.—The Chief Justice delivered judgment in these cases yesterday morning in favor of the plaintiffs, giving them the relief sought for in the action. It will be remembered that the action was instituted by the plaintiff against the defendant, who had a plan made and registered of lot 202, group 1, New Westminster district, which, as plaintiff alleged, included a portion of lot 376 belonging to him. His Lordship found that the southern boundary line of lot 202 was not an extension of lot 201, and that Clarke must only take what his Crown grant calls for, and what Butler had to convey consequently what is known as Jemmett's southern line must be the defendant's limit.

Philharmonic Hall.

"The Amateur Dramatic Company of H. M. S. Constance" appeared in Philharmonic Hall again last evening, presenting the same bill as on the previous evening. The whole performance passed off successfully, some parts being very well acted. The audience showed their appreciation of the evening's entertainment by their frequent and continued applause, and the company fully deserve the token of appreciation so well shown by the large support on both evenings. The company are particularly obliged to Messrs. T. N. Hibben & Co. for their kindness in selling tickets for them free of charge. The drum and fife corps did good work in parading the streets and reminding people of the entertainment.

THE WORLD'S EXPOSITION AT NEW ORLEANS.—Eleven foreign governments have indicated an intention to participate in this exposition which will be opened on the first Monday in December next. The exhibition building will be the largest ever erected except that of London. The citizens of New Orleans subscribed $500,000 towards the expenses; the city corporation gave $100,000 and the use of its principal park, and citizens of the state of Louisiana have been called on to increase the subscriptions to $1,000,000. Passengers will be carried on the railways at one cent per mile and every possible consideration will be shown to visitors. Col. Stevens, U. S. consul at this port, will be happy to give the fullest information to intending exhibitors.

DEATH OF MR. THOS. PRICE.—A telegram from La Connor, W. T., announces the sudden death at that place on Monday evening of Mr. Thomas Price, tailor, of Government street in this city. Mr. Price left Victoria on Thursday of last week to visit a married daughter at La Connor. He reached there, apparently, in excellent health; but just after supper on Monday he reeled, fell and died instantly. He came to the country in 1859 as a non-commissioned officer of the sappers and miners, receiving an honorable discharge when that corps was mustered one of service. Mr. Price leaves a large family, some of whom reside in this city, Nanaimo and Washington Territory. The body will be brought here for interment to-day.

"PERSEVERANCE WINS." — Mr. Stephen Cureton, in a 12mo. volume of some 260 pages, presents in the attractive guise of a story his experience as a travelling newspaper correspondent. The book, as the author tells us in the preface, was compiled from notes and reminiscences as a pastime and not originally with any idea of publication. This explains a certain crudeness of style which is noticeable throughout the book. Notwithstanding this free-and-easy tone it is pleasant reading, and the accounts of travels in eastern Canada, the Northwest Territory and British Columbia are particularly interesting. The early scenes of the story are laid in England, and life on the Australian sheep ranges is afterwards portrayed. The author, en passant, gives his opinion of many of the important questions of the day. The book is in paper covers and the publisher is J. P. Clougher, Toronto. Price 50 cents.

THE CHILLIWHACK CAMP MEETING.—The annual camp meeting at Chilliwhack commenced on Wednesday of last week, the 4th inst., and closed on Monday last. It was held on the new grounds on the banks of the Chilliwhack river, the place being beautifully situated for the purpose. The meetings were largely attended by people from different parts, numbers coming from Washington Territory. A large number of Indians were in attendance throughout the session and manifested great interest in the meetings. The clergy in charge of the meeting were Revs. Crosby, Green, Hall and Robinson, and they were greatly gratified on seeing the deep interest taken in the meetings by the members present.

UNTRUE.—The report published in this paper a few days ago, on the authority of a letter from Seymour Narrows, that a man named King and two others had been drowned in the narrows proves to have been untrue. King and party arrived at Nanaimo yesterday in excellent "fettle."

SILVERWARE.—There is on view at the auction rooms of J. P. Davies & Co. the handsomest collection of silverware ever brought into the province. These beautiful goods will be sold at auction to-morrow by catalogue.

NANAIMO ASSIZES.—In the robbery of the Chinese farm case there were three convictions. Randall got 12 years and his white pal 4 years; a Chinaman 10 years, and Merrick, who turned Queen's evidence, goes over till next assizes.

WATER MAIN.—A four inch water main is being laid along Wharf street and will communicate with the H. B. Co.'s tank, and also a hydrant at the foot of Fort street.

THE STEAMER ENTERPRISE.—It is anticipated that the steamer Enterprise, having shipped her new cylinder, will be ready to run within a week.

REPAIRING THE CABLE.—Mr. Carmichael was out yesterday repairing the cable boxes at Saanich.

POLICE COURT.—There was only one case of drunkenness before the police court yesday morning.

The King of Grain Harvesters.

This information comes wholly from Indian rumors and may not be reliable.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—A cable dispatch received from London this afternoon states in the British commons to-day the under foreign secretary stated a representation touching the duty of friendly powers in regard to dynamite had been addressed to this government but no reply had been received. This dispatch was shown Secretary Frelinghuysen to-night and he said it seemed to refer to representations made to this government touching recent outrages, but the U. S. government had not received anything on the subject from the British government since the commission of the recent dynamite outrage. The sum required by secretary Frelinghuysen to buy for the government certain rights which, it is understood, the Nicaraguan government has conceded for an interoceanic coral, is $250,000, not $200,000 as heretofore reported. It is embedded in the paragraph of the consular and diplomatic bill attached to it by the senate. It was reported yesterday that it was this paragraph which was under discussion in the secret session of the senate this afternoon. No action was taken.

CINCINNATI, June 10.—Turner Hall was crowded to-night by a meeting of Germans called by the German republican club to ratify the nomination of Blaine and Logan. Speeches were made by A. H. Bade, Gen. J. S. Robinson, Hon. J. B. Foraker. Much enthusiasm prevailed.

ITALY.

ROME, June 10.—Signor Manciz, minister of foreign affairs, in addressing the chamber of deputies to-day said: It was improbable that the American Congress would have time for the discussion during the present session of the bill placing foreigners upon the same footing as Americans as regards duty on introduction into America works of art. If the bill was not considered by the 21st inst., as demanded, Italy would take measures to obtain compensation, as he considered Italian subjects unfairly treated and at variance with the treaty existing between the two countries. Ministers of Foreign Affairs, Commerce and Finance were considering the bill regarding a matter which might be brought into operation after an agreement with other European governments had been made.

CANADA.

QUEBEC, June 10.—Ex-President Eno of the Second National Bank, New York, was liberated to-day under a writ of habeas corpus and was immediately re-arrested upon a charge of forgery.

AUSTRIA.

VIENNA, June 10.—A duel with swords was fought here to-day between Count Keglerich and Baron Rodich. Both were severely wounded.

IRELAND.

DUBLIN, June 10.—In the Smythe murder case to-day informer Cole testified that dynamiter Daly was the person who first organized the Fenian brotherhood at Barbavilla.

DELAYED DISPATCHES

EUROPE.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 9.—One hundred persons were arrested at Kief to-day on charge of being Nihilists. There were forty army accessories among the number. Two hundred arrests were also made at Charca.

VIENNA, June 9.—In the trial of Shilenaoter to-day he confessed the murder of Block, which was committed for furtherance of anarchast designs, but denied that he was concerned in the murder of the baker Isurt.

LONDON, June 10.—Gordon's sister has refused money for the relief of her brother. She says Gordon being a British subject it devolves upon the government to give relief.

EASTERN STATES.

DENVER, June 10.—The Giant Powder Company's magazine, containing 10,000 pounds tonite powder, located three and a half miles east of this city, exploded with terrible force, destroying a large number of plate fronts in the business portion of the city. The explosion wrecked a fine new farmhouse 300 yards distant. It was completely demolished, though the occupants escaped injury. No clue has been found as to the cause of the explosion.

A Vienna dispatch says it is reported that Prince William of Prussia during his visit to St. Petersburg arranged a project for marriage between Princess Sophia Dorothea, granddaughter of the emperor, and the czarovitch.

European Mail.

(Per Northern Pacific Railway.)

PARIS, June 2.—The interview on Saturday between the Prince of Wales and Premier Ferry was on the subject of the recent dynamite outrages in London, which, it is strongly suspected, were planned and executed by Fenians using France as a base of operations. The proposed Fenian Conference in Paris was also alluded to, and an understanding arrived at as to the course which should be pursued by the French authorities relative to the matter.

La Republique Francais is moved by the recent explosions in London to say that on reflection it believes O'Donovan Rossa's crowd cannot be longer tolerated, and that his cowardly pack should be stamped out once and forever.

ROME, June 2.—A letter from the Pope was read in all the Catholic churches on Sunday denouncing the authors of the London explosion and warning Catholics to hold themselves aloof from secret societies under pain of excommunication.

BERLIN, June 2.—The Berlin press, in view of the explosions in London, unanimously urge the necessity of the Powers adopting Bismarck's proposal for a mutual understanding in regard to Socialists, Anarchists, and Dynamiters.

LONDON, June 1.—The new Irish Land bill, introduced by Mr. Trevelyan, is in substance a generous measure by which the Irish peasantry will be enabled to become absolute owners of their farms by paying yearly for forty years a sum less than what they now pay for rent, the government undertaking to advance a hundred millions for this purpose. Mr. Parnell reserves his decision, but it is understood that he intends to oppose it on the pretext that the county cess is made liable as security for these advances, but really because a bill of that scope takes the land question out of his hands as a lever for further agitation.

Crown Solicitor Boltun of Dublin, has joined the host of people who are prosecuting Mr. Wm. O'Brien, M.P., the editor of United Ireland. Mr. Bolton failed last month with liabilities amounting to nearly half a million pounds, and the United Ireland led the jubllation which was expressed by all the national papers over his downfall. He has now begun an action against Mr. O'Brien for libel and defamation of character, and lays his damages at the very respectable sum of £30,000.

The Shakespeare Show, for the benefit of the Hospital for Women, has not been a big success, although some of the most fashionable ladies of London consented to act as barmaids and sell programmes, smoking caps and pug dogs, and to undergo the free conversational treatment to which professional barmaids are compelled to submit behind the bars of drinking saloons.

O'DONNOVAN ROSSA.

He Notifies the Queen to Quit Windsor Castle.

When the news of the latest dynamite explosion reached New York a reporter interviewed the heads of the dynamite movement in New York.

"I expected this news," said O'Donnovan Rossa. "It is the beginning of the end, and it will not be long before we will have England where we want her, in a position where she will be anxious to grant Ireland all she wants. The explosions were intended to be simultaneous, and I can't see why they did not go off together. However, with a little more practice we shall get the work more perfectly done. This is only a sample of what we can do. Let me give you a piece of advice. If you feel anyway friendly to Queen Victoria write at once and tell her to get out of Windsor Castle within three weeks."

"Is Windsor Castle the next place to be blown up?"

"No, not the next. It will be the third. The next place to be blown up will be the Liverpool docks. We, that is, I," continued Mr. Rossa, "have made arrangements to blow up, between the 15th and 19th of June, every ship in Liverpool harbor, and before July arrives the British navy will be no more."

"Yes, sir," interrupted Mr. Patrick Joyce, "before the first of July the Terror, the Thunderer, and in fact every ironclad in the English navy will be blown up. We intend to blow up Gibraltar, the Manchester railroad, the London docks, and all the underground railroads of London."

The explosions were the result of the work of American dynamiters, said Professor Mezzeroff, and American dynamite was the agency employed.

The Tubbercurry Trial.

LONDON, June 1.—Patrick Delaney's testimony in the case of the Sligo conspirators at Tubbercurry gives the utmost satisfaction to the detectives. They have all along claimed that the Sligo conspirators were a band of "professional murderers." They now declare that Delaney's testimony will prove that the officers in arresting these villains have "unearthed a nest of vipers engaged in plots of wholesale slaughter." It is believed throughout Sligo that Fitzgerald is really a Fenian of the old school, which advocated armed rebellion against England, and did not favor assassination. He was a sturdy opponent of the plans of Brennan, Egan and Sheridan. It is said he opposed the two first-named because they did not favor open resistance, but advocated agitation and moral force, and that he objected to Sheridan's policy of murder. Some of Fitzgerald's friends go so far now as to say that it was Sheridan who ordered the "removal" of those landlords who were active in advocating the foreshadowed clause in the Irish Land Act which provided for State aided purchase of lands.

KILLED HIS FATHER-IN-LAW.

What an Oregon City Marshal Did.

McMINNVILLE, June 8.—This community was thrown into intense excitement this afternoon, on account of the shooting of John Wardle, a cripple, about 75 years old, living three miles north of town. The shooting was done by George Farris, our city marshal. Farris is a stepson of Wardle's. His mother and Wardle have lived unhappily for some time. He went out to Wardle's to-day, and in a family quarrel Farris drew his pistol and shot Wardle through the breast, in the region of the heart. Wardle was reported dying a few minutes later. Farris came into town and was arrested and taken to jail at Lafayette. He has a wife and three children.

THE barques Prince Rupert and Jessie Jamieson have made a large addition to Bagnall & Co.'s stock of pianos and musical instruments, including seventy five violins, some very choice and valuable. The stock will be further augmented by the arrival of the Duke of Connaught, Harvest Home, Princess Royal, James Bain and Jupiter. A visit to this establishment will repay the trouble.

BLAINE.

A Sensible View of His Policy.

LONDON, June 7.—Under the heading "A Beaconsfield beyond the seas," the Pall Mall Gazette says: "Blaine's nomination is the most notable event for England since Lincoln was assassinated. Wherever Blaine can oust the British from positions they hold on the American continent he will use his influence. His menacing intimation that he disregarded the Clayton-Bulwer treaty is an evil augury for the future relations of England and America. His intervention in Peru is most ominous. Then he has declared that he disliked England to win commercial triumphs in fields belonging to America. England watches with extreme solicitude the progress of the campaign."

Chinese Laborers.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—The Treasury Department is informed that in some instances certificates, as provided by section 4 of the Act of May 6th, have been granted Chinese laborers at points other than of exit of laborers from the United States, and such certificates have been given Chinese merchants under this practice. Duplicate certificates may sometimes be granted—one at the first port and one at the port of exit—and one at least of these has been fraudulent and used to obtain admission in the United States of Chinese laborers not entitled to the privilege. Customs officers, therefore, have been instructed to confine the issue of such documents to Chinese laborers who depart directly for foreign ports, and to restrain from issuing the same to laborers who intend going to China, or any other foreign land, by some other part of the United States, or to Chinamen who are not laborers.

WHICH!

A Story in the Boston Globe Dedicated to Bob Ingersoll.

Forty years ago to the lonely cottage of a poor Christian woman, in Truro, Cape Cod, there came a toddling babe, because where stands now the Crawford house in this city its mother lay dead, and its father, busy with other matters than babe's prattle, had sent the motherless child to the sandy shores of the cape to grow and be strong.

And the babe was quite content. It might have missed the sad eyes of the fond mother, and that soft caress, but life was new, and there was so much to be seen, and the mother's last wish was that it should be sent to this little cottage by the meadow land and the sea. So, when the carriage wheels had plowed their way through the billows of sand, and drew up at the garden, the babe reached its little hands to grasp the finger of the dame who led it into the house, and pitying its innocence, all unconscious of its lost dead, she showed the babe all her treasures and the wonderful things, from all parts of the world, she had. And there was the wide fireplace—so common on Cape Cod to this day—with a kettle of hasty pudding hanging to an iron crane; and there was the yellow painted kitchen floor; and off the kitchen was a dark, mysterious room, close curtained with paper blinds, and on the floor was a carpet deftly woven from odds and ends of various colors, had on the mantlepiece were some sea-shells, and in the corner a solemn, tall wooden clock, that ticked strongly and regularly.

Above the parlor and kitchen was a little bed, clean and white; and above that a little window, with a snow-white curtain tied with tape, and on unsightly pin-holes where careless housewives pin instead of tie their curtains up.

For breakfast there were eggs and Indian meal, fresh fish and milk; and this old lady and her husband and sons would pray and eat, and then the men would go out upon the ocean to fish.

But one day the sky grew dark, and Aunt Betsy (as everybody called her) went often to the door, and looked anxiously seaward, and the gale came on, known afterward all over Cape Cod as the great October gale, and all that day, that night and the next day that the storm howled about Aunt Betsy's lonely cottage, and next morning the scattered fleet came in, but not all—nay, not half that left the little harbor of Truro before the gale. Some had gone down far at sea; others, while vainly striving to enter port, but the boat that bore all that was dear to old Aunt Betsy had gone down at the very mouth of the harbor, and it was thought that the sea would give up its dead and it, for well the babe—now grown to stalwart manhood—remembers the afternoon when a group of rough, seafaring men brought Aunt Betsy's sons into a little cottage and placed them cold and still, side by side, in the little parlor, and then the men went out with uncovered heads and hushed steps and left Aunt Betsy alone with her dead.

The babe began to cry, why I know no probably because he could not understand it. But Aunt Betsy did not cry, and her face was glorious with a strange white light, and her eyes seemed to be looking far away, and led the babe into the dark mysterious room, and she opened the blinds and let the afternoon's sun come pouring in, and while his rays made bright the upturned faces of the dead Aunt Betsy knelt by her sons and prayed; and the babe knelt, too, and clasped his little hands and looked wonderfully upon the dead boys and their mother; and then Aunt Betsy took her Bible in her lap and read aloud; but all the time she did not weep; and then she went out into the little kitchen, which by that time was full of fishermen's wives, who had come to console.

Men stripped and washed the dead and laid them out for the grave, and and shed no tears. But that night Aunt Betsy took the babe with her to bed, and when she throught he was asleep she crept out, and kneeling there, she sobbed and prayed all the night; but next morn she was up and about her duties and her dead were taken out and laid in the little church yard upon the hill.

And the years rolled on; the little cottage gradually was covered with climbing roses and the ocean air drifted in the little window at morn, freighted with perfume, and the babe grew to sturdy boyhood and Aunt Betsy made much of him, for he was all she had. There were no cottages near Aunt Betsy's, and the boy lived solitary and made paper boats and paddled his brown feet in the water and made houses from the wet sand and patted down over his feet, which, withdrawn left minature caves, and as he drew apace he took to swimming and boating, and would even row his boat down the Pamet River to the ocean. This river had a tradition of Indians in the early wars of the Puritans. It opened into the sea on a dangerous part of the coast, and one night there came a stately ship and struck the shifting sands, and the next morning the sea was sweeping over the wreck, and it was through the blinding spray, two forms were seen lashed to the mast, and a life-boat put off, and after much peril the boat returned, and a strong, dark, foreign gentlemen, with a dead woman in his arms, were all that we found upon the ship.

The boy was there with his boat, and he took them both to aunt Betsy's cottage, and again the little parlor was opened and the strange gentleman took the dead girl in and would not let her go, but held her in his arms and rocked to and fro, and moaned; but it was the anguish of despair. And Aunt Betsy went in and tried to comfort him, and told him God was good, and brought her Bible, but the man turned his blood-shot eyes upon her and fiercely bade her take it away. And then Aunt Betsy stole silently out of the room and shut the door, and left him with his dead.

And all that night he held the dead girl in his arms and moaned, and no one dare to go near him until the doctor came in and said the man was mad; that the terrible ordeal he had passed shattered his intellect, and that day he died, too, and again there was a funeral from Aunt Betsy's cottage, and new graves made in the churchyard upon the hill.

And to that funeral came strangers from the city, well dressed and with soft, white hands and clear, cold faces with the unmistakable culture of wealth and learning. But they said naught of God, but they said that the dead man had been a great traveler, had braved battle and plague, and was deeply learned, and they wondered why he had broken down, he with his splendid physique, rare philosophy, and glittering intellect; but Aunt Betsy said it was because he had no God, no Bible, and they smiled pityingly, and said their dead friend loved the girl who died in his arms, and as much as said that poor people, living all their lives in penury and want, knew naught of the master passion."

Aunt Betsy made no reply, but took her Bible and went out upon the cottage door step, and there in her Bible she read, facing thesea that had years before swallowed her all, and the tears stole down her cheek and dropped upon the time stained page. Again there came the strange white light upon her face, as when her own dead were brought to her feet, and much the boy wondered how that lonely old woman could endure so much, while the strong man so magnificently endowed want mad.

Years have passed away. The cottage long since went to decay, and Aunt Betsy years ago slept in the churchyard on the hill, by the side of her sons. But the boy grew to man's estate, and went out into the world and battled it, and man's inhumanity made him fitter, for he was betrayed, robbed, until he, too, became self reliant cold, calculating, and his intellect fed upon his heart, and he could smile and put his passions under his feet. He, too, broke loose from all traditions and supersititions and laughed at Bible fable; but there came a time when he was a wanderer on the face of the earth, and groped like one with outstretched hands in the darkness, and then he thought how the poor fishermen's widow lived her lonely life, faced her troubles and calmly accepted the inevitable, when intellect, manhood, courage and philosophy went down.
